

OAKLAND PUBLIC LIBRARY

Oakland Public Library (OPL) endorses the principles in the Library Bill of Rights and the Freedom to Read statement of the American Library Association. The Library selects resources based upon the principle of open access to materials for all and is committed to providing a collection with a wide range of points of view. Per OPL's Collection Development Policy, individuals raising an objection to material in the collection must submit their objection through this form, which is available to residents of Oakland, Emeryville, and Piedmont (OPL's service area).
